HEAVY HAULING DAMAGING ROADS

Pikes in Some Sections of County Were Badly Cut up During the Last Week.

COST OF REPAIRS IS HEAVY

Highway Superintendent Urges That Gravel Roads be Protected as Far as Possible.

Heavy hauling on some of the county highways when they were spongy and full of moisture has seriously damaged them, according to reports of farmers in several townships. Considerable damage was done during the last week just after the heavy rains and after the high water had left some of the highways in low lands. In a number of places the gravel was practically torn from the surface of the roads and deep ruts were left in the soft material.

Much comment has resulted in some sections of the county as a result of the damage. It is pointed out by the farmers that the roads which are cut up will not be in good condition again until late in the spring or until after new metal has been put on them. Some of the roads which are reported to have been damaged were recently regravelled and material had not packed firmly enough to withstand the heavy weight when it was water soaked.

County Highway Superintendent Frank Hess has been giving his attention to the situation as he realizes the folly and expense of resurfacing the roads and have them torn to pieces on a few days during the winter or the early spring. It is pointed out that the state law regulates the hauling of heavy wagons over the public highways at times of the year when the roads would be permanently damaged. The law fixes the weight which may be hauled in a wagon having wheels with certain size tires and penalties are fixed for violations. In this county there have been few prosecutions under this law, although much damage is done each winter.

It is known that some of the farmers are delaying the delivery of corn and other products to the city markets until after the roads are better drained and in good condition to hold up under the weight. One farmer declared that while he was anxious to bring his corn to the elevator and had made all arrangements to do so the latter part of last week and the first of this, he felt that he should delay such hauling as the damage to the roads would amount to several times the value of the corn. He also said that if his wagons cut up the roads and then a hard freeze came it would be difficult for him and his neighbors to get to the city with heavily loaded wagons during the remainder of the winter. It is also known that some of the elevator men have suggested to their customers that they postpone deliveries where heavy hauling is required until after the roads are in better condition.

It is believed that with a few days of the kind of weather that is now enjoyed the water will soon leave the roads and then when the colder temperature comes they will freeze over smooth and solid. Many of the roads are well drained and these will be the first to get in good condition. The value of an adequate drainage system for public highways is especially emphasized at this season of the year as the roads which are ditched and well crowned will be in condition for all kinds of travel much sooner than those which have little or no drainage, making it impossible for the water to disappear except by absorption and evaporation.

GIRL ATTACKED BY MAN ON A COUNTRY HIGHWAY

Stranger Finds That He is Discovered and Disappears Into a Neighboring Wood.

An unsuccessful search was conducted late Monday afternoon by the local police and a number of farmers living northeast of the city for an unknown man who is said to have attacked Edna Doerr, the eleven-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Doerr, of Redding township, as she was returning home from school in this city. The girl was unharmed. The man is said to have run into a woods along the Redding road but the officers were unable to locate him. The police were handicapped in the search as the call was not sent to the station for some time after the man disappeared.

The girl attends school in this city and walks home each evening. She is accompanied by a neighbor girl almost the entire distance and members of her family wait for her to return. They are able to see her from the time she leaves the neighbor girl until she reaches home. Monday evening Miss Margaret Doerr, her aunt, was in the yard waiting for her and saw the man approach the child.

The little girl hit the stranger in the face with her muff and Miss Margaret Doerr ran towards her. When the man discovered that he was seen he ran towards the woods and disappeared. Word was quickly sent to the neighbors and a small posse was organized. Later the local police were notified and Chief Wallace, and Officers Ruddick, Stewart and Fink responded. It is supposed that the man left the woods before the police arrived and began their search.

The girl described the man as being a white man of unkempt appearance. Her description was meager and the police have practically no clew upon which to conduct a further investigation.

"NOTHIN' DOIN'," SAYS THE SHERIFF AT THIS HOUSE

Called at Home at Ratcliffe Grove to Serve Subpoena and Found Smallpox Case.

The duties of a county sheriff take that sheriff in all parts of the county and occasionally he meets with some unusual situations. A few days ago Sheriff McCord was serving subpoenas near Ratcliffe Grove and was informed that W. M. Goens, for whom he had a subpoena, was visiting at the home of J. W. Scott. He forthwith inquired his way to the Scott home and when he approached the front door he saw Mr. Scott's son at the window. The sheriff backed off the steps but waited for the door to open.

Presently Mr. Scott opened the door and cordially invited the sheriff to come in.

"Nothin' doing!" said McCord. "What's the matter with your son?" "Oh, he hasn't been feeling well for several days, I don't just know what's the trouble," was the reply.

"Have you called a physician?" inquired the official. He was informed that no doctor had seen the patient.

"Well, if he doesn't have the smallpox, I have never seen a case of it," said McCord.

A few hours later a physician was summoned to the Scott home and he pronounced that the patient had a fully developed case of smallpox. The house was quarantined.

Goens is a defendant in an alleged turkey stealing case which was set for trial Monday. When Sheriff McCord returned to Brownstown and learned that the house had been quarantined after his departure, he informed the court of the conditions in the neighborhood and Judge Swails postponed the case. It will not likely be tried at the next term of court.

HIGH WATER REPORTS GET THE BETTER OF MOTORISTS

Four Machines Enroute to Miami, Fla., Pass Through Here—Map
Company Back of Trip.

Reports of high water in southern Indiana and northern Kentucky caused all but four of the twenty-four automobiles scheduled to make the trip from Indianapolis to Miami, Fla., to withdraw their names. The four machines which will make the trip arrived here about 2 o'clock this afternoon. The party was met north of the city by several local motorists who had been informed that the tourists had left Columbus about 1 o'clock after being guests at a noon luncheon there.

The trip is planned by the Scarborough Map Company, of Chicago, and is intended to demonstrate the feasibility of winter travel from the north to the south by automobile. Incidentally, representatives of the company will pick up some ideas concerning roads to be used in their next publication. The party had planned to make the trip over the Dixie Highway, but decided upon the Seymour-Salem route from Indianapolis to Louisville on account of the superior road conditions. One machine in the party came from Chicago, two were from Indianapolis, and Harry Clevenger joined the tourists at Columbus. The tourists expect to remain in Miami several days and to make the return trip in their machines.

FAMILY DIFFICULTIES AIRED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Case of Sparksville People on Trial in Circuit Court—Jury is Called for Wednesday.

Family troubles which occurred during the married life and continued until their separation were aired in circuit court today in the trial of the divorce action filed by Minnie Reynolds against Jefferson A. Reynolds, both of Sparksville. The plaintiff not only seeks a decree of legal separation but wants a state amount of alimony which the defendant is resisting. The case was tried before Judge Swails who heard the testimony of a number of witnesses. The case was not ready to go to trial late this afternoon.

The jury has been called for tomorrow morning to hear the evidence in the case filed by F. H. Heideman, undertaker, against the Shade estate for an alleged claim growing out of the burial of the late Anna Helmbrecht. The claim was filed for $116.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

NEW REVENUE BILL MAY BE FELT HERE

If Some of the Many Suggestions are Adopted Local People will Have to Help Pay Deficit.

NATION NEEDS $700,000,000

Imposition of Excess Profit Tax is Urged by Revenue Experts—Stamp Tax May be Restored.

Newspaper announcement that the ways and means committee of the house of representatives will soon begin work on the revenue bill for the coming year with the view of providing an additional income of $700,000,000 for the government is not read with a great deal of interest by the average citizen until he is informed that he may be required to pay a portion of the extra revenue. And, his interest in such announcement is more manifest when he learns that the additional amount which he may be required to pay will be a comparatively large per cent. of his net earnings for the year. But that is what is proposed and if the present suggestions are included in the bill a good many business men and manufacturers and probably a large number of individuals will have a more intimate knowledge of what it means to raise $700,000,000 by direct taxation.

The government tax experts are working overtime now trying to devise some scheme or method whereby the deficit can be met. The administration and the majority of the members of the present congress do not favor tariff revenues and the loss of the amounts which have thus been paid in the past must be provided in some other way. The tax stamp provision was repealed last fall, but it may be restored on some articles and documents in the new revenue bill, according to dispatches from the capital.

One of the methods that has been proposed and which seems to be in favor with a considerable number of congressmen is the imposition of an excess profits tax which would bring in $200,000,000 annually, it is estimated. Should this provision be included in the new revenue bill a tax of probably five per cent. would be assessed against the net earnings of all corporations, partnerships, stock companies, etc., over and above eight per cent. Such a tax as this has never been imposed upon business in this country under any condition, but the members of the ways and means committee are said to favor it as it would go a long way toward solving their present problem almost at one stroke.

Among the hundreds of other ways that have been suggested to raise the deficit is a tax of $1 a horse-power on all internal combustion engines, meaning of course, automobiles and motorcycles. This would have to be paid in addition to the state and property tax on the same vehicles and would be the government's charge for the privilege of owning a machine. New taxes for candies, tobacco, cigars, soft drinks and many other articles which are not included in the list of necessities have been proposed. It has been suggested that advertising on bill boards and in street cars come in for its share which it is estimated would bring in an additional $2,000,000.

The ways and means committee is even considering a slight revision of the tariff revenue question. For instance, it is pointed out, if rubber, cocoa, bananas, raw wool and raw silk were taken from the free list an additional revenue would be provided. This would be on the basis of a duty of 3 cents a pound on coffee, 10 cents a pound on tea and cocoa, 10 per cent. on crude rubber, raw silk, raw wool, bananas and shingles.

None of the above provisions has been included in the bill which is now being discussed, but according to Washington dispatches it would not be surprising if some of them would find their way into the final draft that is presented and passed by the congress.

New York Financier Advocates Federal Regulation of Stock Exchange.

By United Press.

Washington, January 9.—Revelation of the name of a "high official" which if now given would be "disastrous to the nation and administration" was promised by Thomas W. Lawson, financier, today should an investigating body with higher powers than the present house rules note "leak" committee be ordered.

This promise came after Lawson thought he meant by "high official" some ambassador in Washington. He declined to qualify his statement by saying that he was a United States official.

The committee today voted to receive and enter a motion to report Thomas W. Lawson to the house as in contempt of the committee for failure to answer its questions. Action on the motion was deferred.

Lawson said he believed in federal regulation of the stock exchange. The financier again today was asked the name of the New York Banker who told him a cabinet officer had profited by the "leak" to Wall street. Again he refused.

By United Press.

Vincennes, January 9.—James M. House, mayor of Vincennes, was today found not guilty of charges of mis-conduct in office. The case came to a sudden end shortly before noon. Prosecutor Kimmel who brought the charges refused to question the jury or to present any evidence, declaring that the jury had been irregularly drawn. The jury returned and return the verdict.

Kimmel declares that he will take the case to the supreme court. The supreme court will be asked to pass on money matters which the prosecutor declares are irregular.

LAWSON REFUSES TO REVEAL NAMES

HEARING ENDS IN UPROAR

Tumulty Presents Statement From President That He Had No Knowledge of Note—Demands Public Apology From Wood.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The house rules committee, after wrestling for several hours with Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, through a bewildering maze of intimations and heated arguments which turned the hearing into an uproar, failed to obtain any definite information to substantiate the stories of a "leak" to Wall street in advance of the president's peace note.

When the committee finally adjourned, with Mr. Lawson's examination uncompleted, a motion to cite him before the bar of the house for contempt because he refused to give names had been considered in executive session and taken under advisement.

Earlier in the day Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, whose name was mentioned by Representative Wood in the rumors he laid before the committee last week, appeared to give an emphatic statement, indorsed by the president, that he had no knowledge of the peace note before it was given to the press. He also denied the report repeated by Representative Wood that Mr. Tumulty and Bernard Baruch, a New York broker, had conferred in a Baltimore hotel a few days before the note was made public. Mr. Tumulty denounced the action of Representative Wood in making public charges based on a letter from an unidentified man, and declared from the witness stand, looking Representative Wood in the face, that he was still awaiting the congressman's apology.

Secretary Lansing of the state department also took the stand and asserted that he had no knowledge whatever of advance information having been circulated regarding the peace note. Mr. Lansing related the physical history of the note, how it was prepared, through whose hands it passed, and of his participation in its preparation.

The secretary further stated that he had not given the possible effect of the note on the stock market the least thought, but that he had cautioned secrecy because of the courtsey due to the foreign nations that the communication should not be published here before it had been received abroad.

When Representative Chipperfield of Illinois, sought to interrogate Secretary Lansing regarding his interpretations of the note on the day following its publication, the secretary said firmly that such questioning was going beyond the scope of the inquiry, and was sustained by the committee. The committee's troubles with Mr. Lawson began soon after the financier took the stand and grew into a noisy row quieted only after Chairman Henry had threatened to clear the room of spectators and proceed in executive session.

The committee issued subpoenas for F. M. Lockwood, New York broker, and Albert H. Curtis, former president of the National Bank of North America. Representative Chipperfield had been informed that Albert H. Curtis was the man who wrote Representative Wood the letter regarding Bernard Baruch and Secretary Tumulty, but this Mr. Curtis has denied.

WOULD ASSESS FOR LOSSES

California Congressman Would Reimburse Wall Street Losses.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Assessment of one month's pay of "the president and each and every representative, senator, cabinet officer, stenographer and clerk" to help pay losses of Wall street speculators on the leak on the president's note was proposed in a resolution by Representative Kent of California.

The resolution provides that all losses of speculators from Dec. 18 to Dec. 21 be paid and that the contingent fund of the house be drawn on if necessary to help the officials pay it.

Kent declared there had been friction between the "correlative branches of the government located respectively in Wall street, New York, and Washington, D. C., and while the Washington branch thought peace advisable, Wall street believed in war."

COX INAUGURATED IN OHIO

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—Amid the booming of cannon, the chiming of church bells and the singing of hundreds of school children, James Middleton Cox, Democratic newspaper publisher, of Dayton, was inaugurated governor of Ohio for the second time within four years.

Governor Cox's first official action was to send a telegram to President Wilson informing the president that the Ohio presidential electors, meeting here, had adopted a resolution commending the president on his peace efforts.

In his farewell address at the inaugural ceremonies, Frank C. Willis, the retiring Republican governor, declared in favor of state-wide prohibition and woman suffrage.

Buffalo Bill Awaiting Grim Messenger.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 9.—Colonel William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), is dying in Denver, facing the grim messenger in the same manner as he faced death unmoved many times on the plains of the west in conflicts that made his name famous.

The colonel heard the warning words of the approach of the end of his life from Dr. J. H. East, his physician and friend. He had summoned the physician to the home of his sister, where he is spending his last hours. When Dr. East walked into his room, Colonel Cody said: "Sit down, doctor, there is something I want to ask you. I want you to answer me honestly. What are my chances?"

Dr. East turned to the scout: "There is a time, colonel," said he, "when every honest physician must command his patient to a higher power."

Colonel Cody's head sank. "How long?" he asked, simply.

"I can answer that," said the physician, "only by telling you your life is like the hour glass. The sand is slipping; gradually, slowly—but soon the sand will all be gone. The end is not far away."

Colonel Cody turned to his sister, Mrs. May Decker: "May," he said, "let the Elks and Masons take charge of the funeral."

Then the man who made history in the west when it was young began methodically to arrange his affairs. Dr. East said death would come within thirty-six hours.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy from men of prominence all over the country came during the day. Many boys from different parts of the United States wrote to him.

RAIL WAGE CASE HEARD BY COURT

Power of Congress to Regulate Pay Disputed.

MORE TIME FOR ARGUMENT

All Litigation and Changes Under Adamson Law, Which Become Operative Jan. 1, Suspended by Agreement Pending Decision of Court.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The supreme court is now hearing the test case to determine the constitutionality of the Adamson law, enacted last September when a general railroad strike threatened.

Arguments will continue until Wednesday, and a decision is expected within a few weeks. Meantime, although the law was passed to become effective Jan. 1 last, all litigation under it and the changes it prescribes are suspended by agreement.

The justices manifested keen interest, interrupting with many questions, the arguments over the question whether congress has power to regulate hours of service and wages.

In opening defense of the law for the department of justice, Solicitor General Davis declared it regulates both hours of service and wages, and contended congress has authority to regulate both. He asked annulment of the decision of Circuit Judge Hook at Kansas City in the test case of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railroad, holding the law void.

Although three hours is the usual time allotted for argument of a case, the court granted an extension to eight hours, equally divided between the federal and railroad counsel. Today Walker D. Hines, chairman of the railroads' general committee of counsel, and John G. Johnson of Philadelphia, spoke for the carriers, and on Wednesday the closing argument for the government will be made by Frank Hagerman, special assistant to the attorney general.

The railroad brotherhoods are not participating through counsel, but several labor leaders were spectators. Attorney General Gregory and his entire staff and many members of the congress also were in the crowded courtroom.

Solicitor General Davis, in a two-hour argument, told the court that it "reached the heights of imagination" to say that the primary object of congress in passing the law was not to limit the hours of toil. He asserted that Elisha Lee, the railroads' spokesman throughout the strike controversy often had admitted that fact as well as that the law is workable, now denied by the railroads.

The contention that the law is unworkable, Mr. Davis said, was "a manifest afterthought induced by the necessities of this case." To the charge that the law is experimental, he said, public clamor would have followed had congress attempted to fix an arbitrary eight-hour day scale in perpetuity without possibility of change under future changed conditions.

"It may be congress did not please the railroads, the employees or the public," he concluded, "but the body that made the law should amend it and the judiciary must not usurp that function."

TEUTONS TAKE STRONG POINT

Storm Height on Sereth and Outflank-Folkshani.

RUSS GAIN ON RIVER AN

Patrol and Aviation Operations on France-Belgian Front Are Featured In War Statements—Germans Bring Down Six Aeroplanes.

London, Jan. 9.—Field Marshal von Mackensen has captured the strong point held by the Russians and the Roumanians on the Sereth river line in Roumania—the line on which they apparently have prepared to make a stand in an attempt to arrest the Teutonic invasion, and with it 4,000 of the defenders fell into German hands.

This information is contained in the official German war statement, which announces the fall of the strongly defended barrier before the river that the Russians and Roumanians has constructed at Folkshani.

This notable success in the attack upon the Sereth line, which the Russians have flung across southern Moldavia, was won by a successful flanking operation, the Berlin report indicates.

Northwest of Folkshani, about nine miles, the dominating height of Odohekti was taken by storm, giving a vantage point for the artillery. Farther south, a passage of the river Milovu, which had been strongly fortified, was forced and Teutonic columns pressed their way in behind the former Russian lines. Giving the foe no time to place the Folkshani-Yareatea canal position in a state of defense, they fought their way in further and sealed the fate of Folkshani.

The Russians also have lost ground farther north along the Moldavian frontier between the Putna and Oltuz valleys, Berlin announces. Toward the Danube from Folkshani, however, the latest reports showed a Russian offensive of some importance which admittedly had succeeded in gaining ground from von Mackensen's forces. There are also indications that the Russian line toward the Danube, where an advance by the Austro-German-Bulgarian armies is being pressed is holding more successfully than recently.

While Folkshani is some distance south of the River Sereth itself, and the Russians still have that river upon which to fall back, the capture of the town, it appears, weakens appreciably the whole Russian position in this area and makes the river line itself more difficult to defend successfully.

While this heavy fighting has been in progress in the Roumanian war theater, the Russians have launched an offensive on the extreme north of their line, between Dvinsk and Riga. Renewing their attack, which recently resulted in a gain of ground along the River An, they succeeded in enlarging the scope of their gain.

On the Franco-Belgian front patrol and aviation operations are featured in the war office statements. Berlin reports considerable aviation activity and announces the bringing down of six hostile aeroplanes during the day.

POSSE AFTER BANDIT GANG

Two of Sheriff's Party Are Killed by Desperadoes.

Nowata, Okla., Jan. 9.—Posses are trailing the band of outlaws who killed John Garretson and Marshal Bullock, members of a sheriff's party, and wounded a third man in a skirmish in a ravine near here. The bandits are suspected of being bank robbers.

The posse arrested a negro, who had articles which were stolen recently from a store in this part of the state. The negro said he received the articles from four men in exchange for a revolver.

Farmers living nearest the former rendezvous of the bandits believe there are at least twelve in the party.

Oklahoma has been terrorized for three months by an organized band of desperadoes who have robbed several country banks and stores.

FOOD BUYING BY CITIES

Mayor Bosse Has Plan For Co-operative Action; Seeks Legislation.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 9.—Mayor Benjamin Bosse, who established two municipal markets in this city several weeks ago, has a plan for co-operative buying by first and second class cities of Indiana as a means of reducing the high cost of living. He expects to go to Indianapolis in a few days and have a talk with Governor Goodrich.

Mayor Bosse favors action by the legislature creating a board with a member in each city interested. He says that while the city has been able to get food at low prices through buying in quantities, the state, purchasing in far greater quantities, could buy for less money.

Adopts Conference Report.

Washington, Jan. 9.—By a vote of 56 to 10 the senate adopted the conference report on the immigration bill. Supporters of the bill, following the overwhelming vote, expressed confidence the bill will be passed by a two-thirds vote of both house and senate in case the president vetoes it as has been intimated.

POLAR EXPEDITION IN 1918 PLANNED

Robert A. Bartlett Intends to Make Scientific Study of Far North Regions.

TEN MEN TO BE IN PARTY

Investigation of Fauna Life and of Air and Ocean Currents to Be Made.

(By Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, Commander of the Projected Bartlett Polar Expediting)

Washington, January 9.—Equipped for a scientific study of the Polar regions, 800,000 square miles of which never have been sailed or trod by man, the Bartlett Polar expedition, the first purely scientific expedition to enter the far north, will sail from the United States during the summer of 1918.

Scientific research, rather than discovery, will be our first object.

I will take but ten men into the Polar belt with me—including ship's crew, mechanics, and scientists.
Each will be a man of tried calibre, for once set out, there will be no return ticket to the civilized world, at least under 3 to 5 years. Each man must be capable of supreme endurance and versatility.

Two or three scout-type mono-planes, an innovation in polar expeditions, will be included in our equipment to supplement the customary dogs and sledges.

These will be used for observation purposes from the base of operations, always the ship, and might prove invaluable in returning to civilization should the expedition meet with disaster.

How the natural forces operate at the Pole; whether the perpetually moving icefloes of the Arctic sea, swirl in a continuous circle about the Pole; whether their movement is directed by a constant east wind—so frequently noted in former expeditions—or whether by ocean currents; just what atmospheric conditions prevail—these are some of the questions we hope to be able to answer before the trip is concluded.

A careful study of the fauna life on the ocean—floor of the Arctic, with comparisons with the animalculae existence of other waters, will also form a part of the research work. Charting of new lands—if such exist and soundings of the Arctic ocean in various latitudes are further objectives. Admiral Peary, making deep soundings at the Pole, probed for 9,000 feet—nearly two miles—without finding a bottom.

Our ship, which we hope soon to have under construction, will be built of toughest live-oak, with special constructive features to resist the terrific impact with icefloes naturally to be expected on such a trip.
It will be small, to permit of quick moving, which is often imperative to escape being caught and crushed like an egg-shell between rapidly approaching ice fields. If caught in such a cul-de-sac, the only recourse is blasting out a "berth" with dynamite, or abandoning the vessel to her fate.

The ability to sense danger from approaching ice, and to act swiftly and decisively, is one of the most necessary requirements of arctic explorers.

The ship will carry a most complete equipment of scientific instruments—many probably supplied by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.
Tinned foods of all kinds, tea, coffee and chocolate, will be carried to provide a varied diet for the long period in which we shall be distinctively out of the pale of the menu card and the warm bath. Our principal food, however, will consist of coal, walrus and polar-bear steaks.
We can, at some convenient place in the arctic, kill several thousand of these and pile them up on the ice, covered with snow, as our food reserve. They will keep, of course, indefinitely.

The average winter temperature we will encounter will be 35 or 40 degrees below zero, this slightly moderating in the brief summer.

Starting out from some port on the Pacific, probably Seattle, in July, we will pass through Bering Strait and proceed north around Alaska.
Arriving at some point off the American coast in September, we will "set" the ship in the rapidly forming ice-fields, and resign ourselves to a continuous drift with the ice, wherever it may lead us.

We expect to come out at some point between Spitsbergen and Greenland. In thus drifting with the ice, we will be able to note its trend and just what forces are operating in its directions. Whether it is moved principally by the water currents beneath, or is driven by a constant wind, is yet to be determined.
Numbers of important scientific theories may be either blasted or substantiated through these observations.

Frequently, hourly if possible, soundings will be taken of the sea bottom, and specimens of the fauna from the sea-floor collected. The theory that at some former age, the earth's equator was located at what is now the Pole and changed to its present position by a "flip-flop" of the earth, may be somewhat cleared up by a study of dead fauna life of the Arctic ocean, if any can be obtained.

The expedition will include some distinguished meteorologist, in order that an intensive study of atmospheric laws obtaining at the Pole, may be made in the interests of science, and navigation.

"PUT NEW LIFE IN ME," WOMAN SAYS

Mrs. Susan Gase Able to Do All Her Work Since Trying Tanlac.

Mishawaka, Ind., January 8, 1917

"I think Tanlac is a wonderful medicine because it just put new life in me," Mrs. Susan Gase, of 114 West Marion street, wife of a local fireman, said on October 24.

"During the last seven years my health has been very poor," Mrs.
Gase continued. "I had kidney trouble and my system was in a general run down condition. My bowels were very irregular, it being necessary for me to take laxatives often.
For the last four years I also have been bothered almost daily with spells of severe nervousness and trembling. When one of those spells would come over I'd have to stop everything and go sit down. I could do only the lightest part of my housework."

"My husband heard about Tanlac and I decided to try it. My kidneys and stomach are in much better condition since I've tried Tanlac. It is not necessary for me to take laxatives now. Only once in the last week have I experienced one of the spells of trembling that formerly bothered me nearly every day. I can do all my own work now, washing, baking and everything."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like and is a fine tonic and strength producer.

Tanlac is now being specially introduced and explained in Seymour at The H. H. Carter Drug Store.

WEBB-KENYON LAW UPHELD

Prevents Shipment of Liquor Into Dry States.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The Webb-Kenyon law, designed to prevent liquor shipments from "wet" to "dry" states, was declared constitutional by the supreme court of the United States, by a vote of 7 to 2, which also upheld West Virginia's prohibition amendment, prohibiting citizens from receiving liquor for personal use shipped by common carriers in interstate commerce.

It was announced that Justice Mc-Reynolds concurred in the decision but not completely in the opinion.
Justice Holmes and Van Devanter were the two dissenting justices.

She Smokes In Street.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 9.—Mrs.
Margaret Wilda, thirty-eight years old, was arrested when a policeman saw her smoking a cigarette in the street. The policeman told Mrs.
Wilda her act was a breach of the peace. She refused to put the cigarette out, and was held in jail over night.

Red Hot Bolt Causes Fire.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Fire which started when a workman accidentally dropped a red-hot bolt on the tar covered floor of a refrigerator car started a fire in the car department of the B. & O. railroad shops here that resulted in a loss of $50,000.

C. S. Mercer went to Columbus
this morning on business.

Licensing Law Upheld.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Without deciding constitutional questions, the supreme court of the United States affirmed the refusal of California federal courts to enjoin enforcement of California's medical practice law requiring licensing of "drugless" practitioners. The law exempts Christian Scientists.

Kansas City Theater Burns.

Kansas City, Jan. 9.—The Willis
Wood theater, one of the leading playhouses, was gutted by fire. The loss is estimated at $60,000.

PRESIDENT WILL HAVE TWO DIPLOMATIC DINNERS

Ambassador Jusserand, of France, and Other Entente Diplomats to Attend First.

By United Press.

Washington, January 9.—Discussions of peace haven't reached the stage yet that the belligerent diplomats in Washington are exactly chummy. Hence the President again this year is having two diplomatic dinners instead of one—and the first is tonight.

Ambassador Jusserand of France, being the dean of the diplomatic corps here, is the guest of honor.
Others to be seated about the Executive table in the state dining room of the White House include representatives in Washington of the entente allies and neutral diplomats, together with their wives.

Madame Jusserand will sit at the President's right and Ambassador Jusserand at the right of Mrs. Wilson.

The Teutonic allies, together with neutrals, will be represented at the diplomatic dinner next Tuesday evening in the White House.

GOVERNOR GOODRICH.

Governor James P. Goodrich becomes the chief executive of Indiana with his policies of government well defined. Briefly stated, he intends that his administration shall be one of efficiency and economy. He has set out to make every dollar of the state's money just as valuable as a dollar owned by any taxpayer in the state. There are admittedly many wastes in our state government and the people will welcome an administration that will insist upon full returns for money that is expended.

Governor Goodrich is a business man. The people of Indiana are expecting him to bring about the reforms which are so plainly needed and we have every reason to believe that he will do so as far as his authority extends. He insists that the present session of the legislature be conducted more economically than the previous one, and with this in view the needless doorkeepers and assistants will not be employed. The legislators are sent to the state capitol to protect the welfare of the state rather than to pay political debts. Both houses have determined that the session shall be conducted economically and have abolished the useless jobs which were so generously handed out to the faithful ones during the previous administration. Economy in state government cannot be attained without efficiency. The two working hand in hand will produce wonderful results.

Governor Goodrich's message which was delivered at the time of the inaugural ceremony makes his position quite clear on the great questions and problems confronting Indiana. The task before him is a gigantic one. But he is qualified to meet them with that degree of efficiency that will produce the desired results. He enters upon his new work for Indiana with the confidence of the people. He has intimate knowledge of the various departments of the state government and as Governor will know if each department is measuring up to his standard of economy and efficiency.

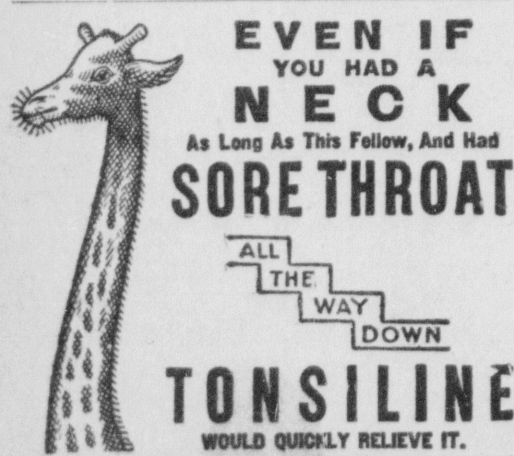

TEMPERANCE LAW VALID.

in upholding the constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon law prohibiting the shipment of intoxicating liquor from "wet" states into those which have voted "dry," the United States supreme court has placed a powerful weapon in the hands of the temperance forces of the country. The decision is in line with the legislation which is being placed on the statute books of the various states keeping pace with the temperance movement that is sweeping the Union.

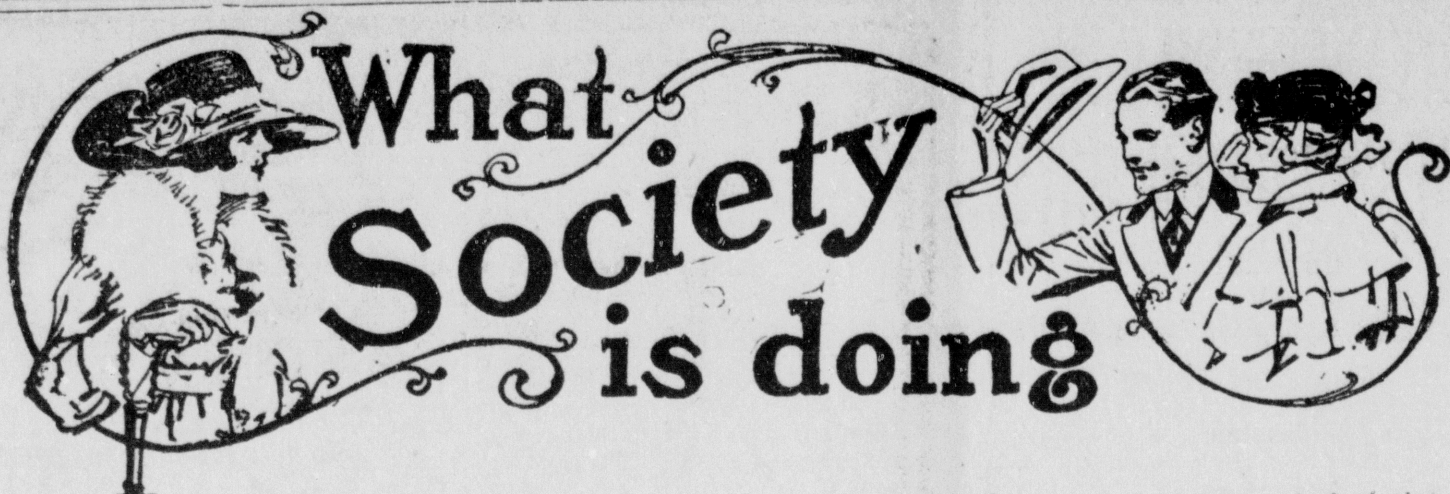

In handing down the opinion Chief Justice White declared: "The all-reaching power of government over liquor is settled." He stated that the purpose of the act was not to forbid the individual use of intoxicating liquors. But, he said, "the purpose of this act was to cut out by the roots the practice of permitting violation of state liquor laws. We can have no doubt that Congress has complete authority to prevent paralyzing of state authority. Congress exerted a power to co-ordinate the national with the state authority."

The liquor interests have contended since the law was enacted that it was unconstitutional as it interfered with interstate commerce. The decision of the supreme court now makes it possible for one state which has voted "dry" to prevent the shipment of liquor into that state from another where it is sold or manufactured.

GUEST DAY OBSERVED

A program centering about the most fascinating of the historical plays, "Richard III," was followed very appropriately by tea, served after the English fashion with dainty jam sandwiches, when Mrs. Oren O. Swails was hostess to the members of the Shakespeare Reading Circle and their friends Monday afternoon at her home on North Walnut street.

Under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Graessle, the members of the Circle have been spending the past several meetings in detailed progressive study of this drama, and the review was taken as a fitting occasion on which to entertain their started to place Will H. Hays at the head of the national Republican organization meets with the approval of the Republicans in Indiana. Mr. Hays has demonstrated in two campaigns his leadership and executive ability. As chairman of the Indiana Republican committee he has proved his worth as a man of broad-gauged ideas and an ardent advocate of good government. Indiana Republicans endorse Will H. Hays for the national chairmanship.

It seems rather strange that the deficit in the national revenues should not be discovered until after the general election. Of course, if the administration leaders knew of the deficit and failed to make any mention of it, the apparent neglect can be attributed to an oversight.

It appears that one Thomas W. Lawson is giving the house rules committee investigating the alleged leak of advance information to Wall Street, some information that is not wholly agreeable.

BANQUET TO BE HELD BY I. U. ALUMNI FRIDAY NIGHT

Former Students at State University will Observe Founders' Day—Plans Completed.

The founding of Indiana University will be celebrated by loyal Jackson county alumni next Friday night in a bigger and more enthusiastic manner than ever before in this county. The celebration is to take the form of a banquet to be held at the New Lynn Hotel at 8 o'clock. Following the banquet there will be speeches and songs, the main address to be given by a professor sent out by the University. M. E. Jennings, president of the local alumni association, who is in charge of the arrangements, has friends. The tea was planned by Mrs. Swails as a surprise both for members and for guests.

$10,000 STOLEN RECOVERED

One Accused of Robbery Shows Where Money is Hidden.

Pittsburg, Jan. 9.—Camelio Turco, the Adams express messenger who had charge of the $10,000 of the payroll of the Placcus Glass company when it was stolen by auto bandits at Tarentum, was released from jail by order of R. H. Jackson, district attorney, who decided Turco was not a party to the robbery. The other three men under arrest, D. E. King, driver of the Glass company's automobile from which the money was stolen; John Hummel and Karl Schwartz, business men of Breckenridge, Pa., were held by the county authorities. Dunn led a party of county detectives to a point in the wood near Tarentum, where a satchel containing the $10,000 was recovered.

Although Seymour has never been advertised as a winter resort, vying with the cities in Florida and Texas, such an idea might not be amiss should the weather which is enjoyed today continue for any considerable length of time—which is hardly probable. As a matter of comparison, the temperature on January 8, one year ago, was just one degree above zero.

Sheriff McCord was here today and took Wesley Christie to the State Farm at Putnamville where he will serve a term of seventy-one days. Christie was sentenced in city court yesterday afternoon on a charge of petit larceny for stealing a beef hide from Henry J. Steinker's slaughter house west of the city. He was fined $1 and costs and given a sentence of sixty days, making a total of seventy-one days that he will have to serve.

Not at All Regular.

General Birdwood tells an amusing story of East Indian manners. It concerns a Babu postmaster in a village on the border, to whom Birdwood, who was on duty among the hills, frequently sent letters by pigeon post, the speediest and in most instances the only method of communication.

One day, however, it chanced that a mounted orderly was going that way, and Birdwood entrusted his letter to him, and as he had no proper official foolscap envelope handy, he inclosed it in one of the small, flimsy ones used for the pigeon postal service and on the outside of which was printed "O. H. M. S., per pigeon post."

The missive was an important one, and the postmaster should have forwarded it at once by the ordinary mail to its destination.

Judge, then, of Birdwood's disgust when a few days later he received it back unopened and on the back of the envelope, in the Babu's copper plate handwriting, the following inscription: "Method of delivery irregular; please attach pigeon."—London Globe.

A Recipe For Happiness.

How little it costs if we give it a thought. To make happy some heart each day—Just one kind word or a tender smile. As we go on our daily way. Perchance a look will suffice to clear The cloud from a neighbor's face And the press of a hand in sympathy A sorrowful tear efface.

One walks in sunlight; another goes All weary in the shade. One treads a path that is fair and smooth; Another must pray for aid. It costs so little I wonder why We give it so little thought. A smile, kind words, a glance, a touch, And what magic may be wrought!

HOADLEY'S

A Triumphal Year For Newspaper Advertising

An increase of approximately twenty-five million dollars in newspaper advertising from the general field has been recorded in the year 1916 just closed.

No other medium, employed to spread the printed word, shows a similar increase either in dollars or cents or in comparison by percentages. None other was paid so well, because none other worked so well.

Never before did newspaper advertising render such a variety of service to so many people, or open so many hitherto unexplored avenues of usefulness.

It is the rule of business that the thing that pays grows; and national advertising increased in the newspapers because it showed large profits to the men who properly employed it. It had paid the foresighted ones who used it in large volume in 1915—so they used more of it, and, as the blazed trail is easy to follow—more people used it.

There was, of course, a great underlying reason for this development of national advertising in the newspapers.

It has been tersely given by a great manufacturer who is at the present time advertising in more than half of all the daily newspapers published. He says:

"Newspaper advertising hits the spot we want to reach.

"Newspaper advertising carries our story to the consumer with the daily news.

"Newspaper advertising does effective work with the local dealer."

Or as a successful advertising agent says it, "Nothing succeeds like newspaper advertising."

LEADERSHIP

Many important interests had things to say to the public during the past year. They found the medium of newspaper advertising the effective place to say them. Among the greater developments along these lines of public service were:—

The further enlargement of the idea of advertising for the good-will of the people on the part of the railroads, telephone companies and other public service corporations;

The growth in space of institutional advertising on the part of manufacturers who are producing a variety of staple products;

A nation-wide campaign of advertising by the railroads which crystallized public sentiment at the time a great strike was threatened;

A nation-wide advertising campaign on the part of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Employment of newspaper advertising for the first time by the Democratic and Republican National Committees.

This latter development was perhaps the most wholesome achievement of the recent political campaign.

First In Public Service In War and In Peace

Perhaps the more notable triumphs of Newspaper advertising were in the field of public service.

Governments marshalled newspaper advertising batteries to raise troops, to pay bills, to encourage thrift, to stimulate industry, to mobilize every national force. It has been said that during the past year the lives of the people of the British Empire have been directed by an advertising manager.

Progressive Canada, nearer home, has done wonderful things along these lines. By advertising to increase productiveness, she has literally made two spears of wheat grow where one grew before.

While the Government of the United States has not yet awakened to the force of the great power she has at her door, leaders of her great political parties have had a last hour conversion.

During the recent political campaign, for the first time, the battle was fought in the open, largely through the medium of newspaper advertising.

It is a significant fact that the Republican Party, which was the greatest user of newspaper space, carried every state but one where it sent its message to the people.

Democratic leaders on the other hand did much to combat this influence with some strong advertising for their candidate.

Corporations have found in paid newspaper advertising a sure avenue to good will for a just cause.

Capital and Labor have courted public opinion through the newspapers.

The old days of lobbying and secret wire-pulling have given way to the great force—newspaper advertising.

Some of the things that were done were badly done, but progress was made and this fact clearly established:—

SERVICE

Canada's Government has found newspaper advertising an efficient servant. It has employed it since 1906, and, since the war, has greatly multiplied its field of usefulness. Here are some things the Canadian Government has done:

Marketed her apple crop at a profit, saving her growers the loss of $2,000,000 by an advertising expenditure of $14,000;

Increased the production of farm products and the activity of manufacturers by an expenditure of $15,000, adding $300,000,000 to her gross production;

Induced the cultivation of town plots by an expenditure of $1,000;

Floated immense war loans; and taught thrift and patriotism.

And Canada has only begun to fight—and to advertise.

"The newspapers of the immediate future will be the great link for every man and set of men who wish to connect with public."

The SEYMOUR REPUBLICAN

Reaches practically three out of four homes in Seymour, and a large percentage in Jackson county. It carries the business message directly into the homes of its readers.

(Copyright, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

Carol began the story with keen relish. "I woke up, and thought I heard someone in the room. I supposed it was Prudence. I said, 'Prudence,' and nobody answered, and everything was quiet. But I felt there was someone in there. I nudged Lark, and she woke up. He moved then, and we both heard him. He was fumbling at the dresser, and our ruby rings are gone. We heard him step across the room and into a closet. He closed the door after him, didn't he Lark?"

"Yes, he did," agreed Lark. "His hand was on the knob."

"So we sneaked out of bed, and went into Prudence's room and woke her and Fairy." She looked at Connie and blushed. "Connie was asleep, and we didn't wake her because we didn't want to frighten her. We woke the girls—and you tell the rest, Prudence."

"We didn't believe her, of course. We went back into their room and there was no one there. But the rings were gone. While they were looking at the dresser, I remembered that I forgot to lock the dungeon door, where we keep the money and the silverware, and I ran downstairs and slammed the door and locked it, and went back up. I didn't hear a sound downstairs."

Mr. Allan laughed heartily. "Well, your burglar was in that closet after the money, no doubt, and he didn't hear you coming, and got locked in."

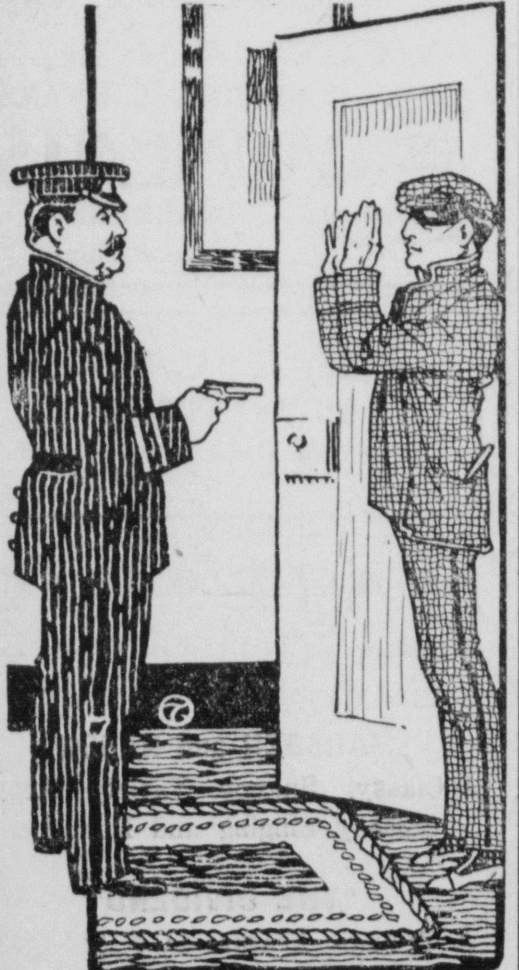

In a few minutes they heard foot-steps around the house and knew the officers had arrived. Mr. Allan let them into the house, four of them, and led them out to the hall. There could be no doubt whatever that the burglar was in the dungeon. He had been busy with his knife, and the lock was nearly removed. If the officers had been two minutes later, the dungeon would have been empty. The girls were sent upstairs at once, with the Allan boy as guard—as guard, without regard for the fact that he was probably more frightened than any one of them.

The chief officer rapped briskly on the dungeon door. Then he clicked his revolver.

"There are enough of us to overpower three of you," he said curtly. "And we have men outside the house, too. If you put your firearms on the floor, and hold both hands over your head, you'll be well treated. If your hands are not up, we fire on sight. Get your revolvers ready, boys."

Then the officer opened the door. Evidently the burglar was wise enough to appreciate the futility of fighting against odds. His hands were above his head, and in less than a second he was securely manacled.

The chief officer had been eying him closely. "Say!" he exclaimed. "Aren't you Limber-Limb Grant?" The burglar grinned, but did not answer. "By Jove!" shouted the officer. "It is!"

"Aren't you Limber-Limb Grant?"

Call the girls down here," he ordered, and when they appeared, gazing at the burglar with mingled admiration, pity and fear, he congratulated them with considerable excitement.

"It's Limber-Limb Grant," he explained. "There's a reward of five hundred dollars for him. You'll get the money, as sure as you're born." Then he turned again to the burglar. "Say, Grant, what's a fellow like you doing on such a fifth-rate job as this? A Methodist parsonage is not just in your line, is it?"

Limber-Limb laughed sheepishly. "Well," he explained good-naturedly, "Chicago got too hot for me. I had to get out in a hurry, and I couldn't get my hands on any money. I had a fine lot of jewels, but I was so pushed I couldn't use them. I came here and loafed around town for a while, because folks said Mount Mark was so fast asleep it did not even wake up long enough to read the daily papers. I heard about this parsonage bunch, and knew the old man had gone off to get more religion. This afternoon at the station I saw a detective from Chicago get off the train, and I knew what that meant. But I needed some cash, and so I wasn't above a little job of this kind. I never dreamed of getting done up by a bunch of preacher's kids. I went upstairs to get those family jewels I've heard about, and one of the little ones gave the alarm. I already had some of them, so I came down at once. I stopped in the dungeon to get that money, and first thing I knew the door banged shut. That's all. You're welcome to the five hundred dollars, ladies. Someone was bound to get it sooner or later, and I'm partial to the ladies, every time."

Mr. Starr on Thursday morning had taken the early eastbound train to Burlington. He attended the evangelistic services at the tabernacle in the afternoon and evening, and then went to bed at the hotel. He slept late the next morning. When he finally appeared the clerk came at once from behind the desk to speak to him. Two or three other guests, who had been lounging about, drew near.

"We've just been reading about your girls, sir," said the clerk respectfully. "It's a pretty nifty little bunch! You must be proud of them!"

"My girls!" ejaculated Mr. Starr.

"Haven't you seen the morning paper? You're Mr. Starr, the Methodist minister at Mount Mark, aren't you?"

"I am! But what has happened to my girls? Is anything wrong? Give me the paper!"

Five minutes later Mr. Starr and his suitcase were in a taxicab speeding toward Union station, and within eight minutes he was en route for Mount Mark—white in the face, shaky in the knees, but tremendously proud in spirit.

Arriving at Mount Mark, he was instantly surrounded by an exclamatory crowd of station loungers. The name of Prudence was upon every tongue, and her father heard it with satisfaction. In the parsonage he found at least two-thirds of the Ladies' Aid society, the trustees and the Sunday-school superintendent, along with a miscellaneous assortment of ordinary members, mixed up with Presbyterians, Baptists and a few unclassified outsiders. And Prudence was the center of attraction.

She was telling the "whole story," for perhaps the fifteenth time that morning, but she broke off when her father hurried in and flung her arms about him. "Oh, papa," she cried, "they mustn't praise me. I had no idea there was a burglar in the house when I ran down the stairs, and I honestly can't see that much credit is due me."

But Mount Mark did not take it so calmly. And as for the Methodist church—well, the Presbyterian people used to say there was "no living with those Methodists, since the girls caught a burglar in the parsonage." Of course it was important, from the Methodist point of view. Pictures of the parsonage and the church were in all the papers for miles around, and at their very next meeting the trustees decided to get the piano the Sunday school had been needing for the last hundred years!

When the five hundred dollars arrived from Chicago, Prudence felt that personally she had no real right to the money. "We must divide it," she insisted, "for I didn't earn it a bit more than any of the others. But it is perfectly glorious to have five hundred dollars, isn't it? Did you ever have five hundred dollars before? Just take it, father, and use it for whatever we need. It's family money."

Neither the younger girls nor their father would consent to this. But when Prudence pleaded with them earnestly, they decided to divide it.

"I will deposit two hundred and fifty dollars for the four younger ones," he said, "and that will leave you as much."

So it was settled, and Prudence was a happy girl when she saw it safely put away in the bank.

The treasurer is guided in his duties by the statutes of Indiana, from which there is no relief. Do not ask him to violate his oath of office.

Taxes are due January 1st and payable at this office in full or at the option of the taxpayer, one-half, including Road Tax in full, on or before the first Monday in May, 1917, and the remaining one-half on or before the first Monday in November, 1917.

If the first installment is not paid within the limit set by law, the taxes for the entire year are then due and delinquent, and ten per cent penalty is extended by the Auditor and charged to the Treasurer. The State is interested in this extension and the Auditor and Treasurer are both personally liable for any penalties that might be refunded. Under no circumstances can the Treasurer alter the duplicate. He cannot make reductions in taxes, and he cannot refund money after once paid in. All errors must be corrected by the Auditor.

Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust, and those whose taxes are complicated, will save valuable time by rendering a statement of the same to the Treasurer as early as convenient in order to make the proper divisions and to correct computation apportionment of taxes on such estates.

Ditch Tax payments expire same time and date as regular tax and all unpaid Ditch Taxes are subject to same penalty as other taxes.

NO RECEIPTS WILL BE MADE OUT FOR ANY PARTY UNTIL PAYMENT IS TENDERED

As the Treasurer cannot know the location of each person's property, Taxpayers should designate the property on which they wish to pay, and see that all property is included in their receipts. If they have land in more than one township or corporation or desire to pay taxes on land or lots not in their name call the Treasurer's attention to the matter.

Carefully examine receipts before leaving the office and if any errors are evident have them corrected at once.

The Treasurer's office is sure to be crowded to its fullest capacity during the last week of tax collections by persons who are compelled, by force of circumstances to postpone payment until the limited time; therefore those Taxpayers who can arrange earlier payment are earnestly requested to do so. We ask this not for ourselves, but for those who are compelled to wait.

The tax duplicate is not a transfer book and when for any one year the duplicate is made with reference to the property on the first day of March of said year, the duplicate remains forever unchanged as to showing of property, and in whose name, changes on transfer books, or prompt recording to the contrary notwithstanding. Property will appear in the same name for the payment of the second installment as for the first installment.

The clerk at the window may not readily remember the circumstances connected with your property. Save time by simply stating NAME and TOWNSHIP or CORPORATION, and whether property is personal or real estate or both.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for penalties and charges on Delinquent Tax resulting from the omission of the person paying such tax to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

The owner of the property on the first day of March in any year shall be liable for taxes that year. The purchaser of the property on the first day of March shall be considered the owner on that day. (Sec. 103.)

COUNTY WARRANTS WILL NOT BE PAID TO PERSONS OWING DELINQUENT TAXES. ALL PERSONS ARE WARNED AGAINST PURCHASING THEM.

Road tax worked out are now turned in direct by the Trustees of the various townships, and promptly credited on the May installment of tax to such persons interested.

Communications by mail requiring an answer must contain self addressed and stamped envelope. The County Council refused to appropriate funds for postage for this purpose.

JOHN E. BELDING, Treasurer of Jackson County.
Brownstown, Ind., January 1st, 1917.

SPLENDID INSTITUTE HELD IN REDDINGTON TOWNSHIP

Excellent Program is Heard by Large Attendance—Practical Addresses Given.

The Reddington township farmers' institute which was held at the Reddington Christian church Saturday was one of the most successful ever conducted in that township. The excellent, practical addresses were heard by large audiences and the interest was pronounced.

A member of the institute writes the following concerning the meeting:

Institute was called to order by the president, Mr. Albert Kelley, at 10 o'clock. After song, "America" by the convention, prayer was offered by Rev. John Anderson.

Mr. Ralph Test, of New Castle, Ind was introduced, who spoke on the subject of "Community Organization." He said these institutes are great agents in bringing people together in a social way, and to bring out problems already thought of, to be further discussed. An organizer should be a man big enough to withstand all criticism and rebuffs that come to one in such a position. He spoke of an organization in his own township in which the farmers have established stock companies, canning factories, elevators where the buy grain, mill feed fertilizer, etc. from wholesale houses; also, threshing rings, companies for shipping stock, and other like organizations. The social and religious side was not forgotten. At the end of threshing season, they have a threshers' picnic. Literary societies and Sunday schools are organized. Instead of many small churches of different denominations, poorly supported a large church of all denominations, called the Church of Christ has been built and congregation is flourishing. The young people are always given a part in all and are thus encouraged to stay on the farm.

Following this was an address by Miss Nancy Blair Barr, of Purdue, on the subject of "Household Conveniences." Woman's crying need has always been too have more time to do the things she wants to do. The first step toward this would be to have more household conveniences. The talk was confined mainly to conveniences in the kitchen and dining room as that is where most of the woman's time is spent. Women should see that tables, cabinet, stove and sink are so arranged with reference to each other that there is the least walking possible to be done in doing the work of preparing meals. A few steps saved each day would mean miles in a year. Among other conveniences she urged the use of the fireless cooker, iceless refrigerator, steam-pressure canner, and wheel tray. She demanded that women have these things as well as the men have their labor-saving farm implements.

Committees for next year's work were appointed. Dinner from well filled baskets was spread on tables in the basement.

The speakers judged the work of the boys' and girls' corn and sewing clubs during the noon hour.

The afternoon session began with a full house. Opening number was a solo, "Stay on the Farm" by Mrs. Alice Kelley. Following this was an address by Mr. Ralph Test, on the subject, "Enrichment of Rural Life." He said the ancient nations of Egypt, Greece, Rome, ceased to be the leading nations of the world because of their lack or neglect of agriculture. They have been followed by the nations of today—the Teutons, English and Americans. It is our portion now to make an agricultural nation that shall establish our permanence. Make country life pleasant, convenient, desirable. The difference in looks of country and city man is fast disappearing. He placed emphasis upon true, brotherly love in relations with each other.

Ackeret quartet sang, "I Love the Good Old Farm."

Miss Barr again addressed the convention and began by saying that one-half of the orchard products and over half of the garden products go to waste each year because people do not realize the food value nor have adequate facilities for canning. Seven times the proper amount of meat has been consumed by the American people because in winter time they cannot get the fruit, vegetables and greens they should have. Purdue has adopted the slogan—one can of fruit, one can of vegetables one can of greens for every day in the year. In 1940 when the population of the United States will have increased to about 140 millions, we will have to learn the lesson of how to serve our food supply, that is now going to waste.

Following this the 'Reddington Ladies' quartette sang a song.

Below are the names of the prize winners in the young people's contests

Boys' seed corn contest, best selection of 10 ears, white.

Wilbur Baker—first prize.

James Baker—second prize.

Harry Baldwin and Malcolm Heit—third prize.

Glen Kelley and Russell Glasson—fourth prize (made up special.)

Best selection, 10 ears, yellow:

Clyde May—first prize.

Emerson Sweany—second prize.

Girls' sewing contest, for darning one pair stockings, patching one piece checked gingham, and making one gingham apron:

Orressa Welliver—first prize.

Essie Beam—second prize.

Madge Kelley—third prize.

The work of the young people showed painstaking effort and interest. The public school teachers who aided thru their domestic science work are to be given credit for their co-operation.

Resolutions were passed to thank the Reddington people for the use of their church.

All in all the institute was universally conceded to be a success and inspiration to all.

Officers of the Indiana Grand Lodge to Attend Session at Madison Tuesday.

The Knights of Pythias of this district are planning for a big meeting at Madison tomorrow. W. G. Geile, of this city, is district deputy, and has charge of the meeting and the program. He expects an unusually large attendance as all the district have sent word that they will be well represented. Twenty-two lodges are included in the district. Jackson county has the largest number of lodges of any county in the district and Hermon lodge, this city, is the strongest in the district.

P. A. Nichter and E. C. Rinne will represent the local lodge at the session. Besides the delegates a number of other Knights will be in attendance. Special interest is shown in the discussion and explanation of the changes which have been made in the K. of P. laws by the Grand Lodge of Indiana. These changes will be explained by the Grand Chancellor, Dr. A. F. Priest, of Marion, and other grand lodge officers. A public meeting will be held in the afternoon. At that time a program will be given by musicians in Madison.
